

DATE BY THE NUMBERS

Great for Valentine's Day, Weddings, Anniversaries, Graduations, Birthdays & Friends

Date by the numbers is a treasure map that is meant to spark spontaneity, interest and fun. It's a "different date" for yawning or sleepy couples who have been together a while.

Directions:

Set a time that the two of you can go out for a date. Daytime or evening will work, depending on your schedules.

Your date is a meal with three courses: drinks, dinner, and desert. For each course one of you holds this paper and asks for 2 – 3 numbers between 1 and 10. The other picks the numbers. The one holding the paper will read aloud the questions in the right hand column that correspond with the numbers picked. The other answers. When the next course is served, hand the paper to your date and swap roles. Alternate roles again for desert. So, decide who goes first and here you go....

Choose your restaurant

Think of three romantic or "conversation friendly" restaurants in your town or area. One of you fills in three restaurant names (without the other seeing the order). The other chooses a number between one and three. The restaurant corresponding to that number will be your destination.

_____ (Name of city/town where restaurants are located)

- 1) _____ (Name of a restaurant)
- 2) _____ "
- 3) _____ "

Drinks

You ask, "Pick 2 – 3 numbers between 1 and 10."

Read the questions picked, one at a time, and your date answers. Share your answer, too, if you like. You can go ahead and ask all of the questions if you are having fun and you both want to do that.

Conversation starters –
